I believe that a few hours of quite time is a good thing. I usually work or read on the plan and during long trips I try to sleep. When people speak on cell phones they generally speak louder than they should and I find them very rude. I'm voting for no cell phones on commercial flights.